

Alida Mobile App Privacy Notice

We provide this mobile application on behalf of one or more companies that invite you to participate in their surveys. When you take a survey through this app, the survey will identify the company requesting your participation. That company determines the purposes and means of collecting, using, disclosing, and otherwise processing any personal information it receives about you through this app. Each survey should also include a link to the company's privacy notice, which explains how your personal information is handled. Please review that notice for more information. We process personal data solely on the company's behalf and in accordance with its instructions.

